AMC Celebrates 50th Anniversary!

On Saturday, AMCsers young and old gathered in Queen Creek to climb and celebrate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Arizona Mountaineering Club.

Some of us arrived at Oak Flat Campground on Friday to set up canopies and tables and get staged for Saturday morning. Everyone hit the sack pretty early, knowing we all had a big day ahead. At least I think they did; I know I was out as soon as I crawled in my bag. Activities started early on Saturday with people flowing in at a steady rate by 7:30 am to get their 50th Anniversary T-shirts and sign up for a climbing area. The weather was PERFECT and everyone was anxious to get on the rock.

David Sampson and Frank Vers grabbed a bunch of folks with solid 4WDs and headed to the Refuge in Lower Devils to climb in Dog Town, a special place for David. Rogil, with Curtis Stone's help, lead the climbing day at the Pancake House, one of her old standards. Jeff Hatfield and Bruce McHenry volunteered to schlep a bunch of gear out to Magma Gardens to help me set up for a fun day. As a side note, the Basic Outdoor Rock Climbing School grads of recent years are familiar with Magma Gardens, but we switched it up this year and held our Basic climbing day at (Little) Granite Mountain in the McDowell Sonoran Preserve this last March; it was great to see so many of these new Basic grads out at Queen Creek to experience both of these spectacular climbing areas. Jeff Nagel rounded out the group with an outing to Yahkov Wall.

While most folks were out climbing and working up an appetite, others began gathering at the campground in preparation for festivities. Climbers rolled back in by 4:00 and the celebrations began in earnest with plenty of food and drink for all and a couple of terrific 50th Birthday cakes.

We were especially honored by the presence of some of the founding and early members of the AMC including Wally Vegors (original President), Ron Barstad (Newsletter editor) & wife Jan, Tom Kreuser (original Secretary and the Tom of Tom's Thumb), and Chuk Graf. What a treat it was to spend time with these guys and learn more about the early days. Tom, Chuck, and Ron brought out an assortment of their climbing gear including leather rappelling shoulder guards (ouch!!). Chuck and his homemade 5 inch wedge cut from an aluminum I-Beam, carried into the Grand Canyon for some epic adventures. Ron Barstad, early Newsletter editor brought out his collection of Newsletters as well as an original AMC Rock Climbing Training Manual. Who remembers mimeographs? And printing after hours at the ASU print shop! I'm pretty sure the statute of limitations has run out on that one. However, there is no statute of limitations on roping members past and present into a new job. Ron graciously "volunteered" to scan these early newsletters, including the special February

1972 Reference Issue. Look for these issues to be posted in our AMC website Newsletter archive! Ron also demonstrated his technical prowess wielding his trusty vintage ice ax to slice the 50th Birthday chocolate cake. Check out the YouTube video at www.youtube.com/watch?v=T6oVpxzxOeE.

Wally Vegors deserves a special note of recognition. He was not only a founding member and the first AMC President, but after a long hiatus to raise a family became active again in the 90s and took on the monumental task of Newsletter editor for many years. Wally's contributions to the AMC are exceptional and unparalleled in breadth, depth, and time. Keep on trucking, Wally!

Finally, many thanks to the folks who planned the event and made it happen. In particular, thank you to the planning committee of Maureen Nowland, Laura Nagy, and Lynn Folden for all the work to provide food, drinks, Birthday cakes, and special 50th Anniversary T-Shirts. Thanks also to Jeff Nagel for the T-Shirt design. And thanks to David Sampson for corralling Outing Leaders and to all the OLs who made our climbing day happen. What a great day we all had. I hope these guys don't scream when I say "hey, we need to do this more often"!

Happy Anniversary, AMC!

AMC Spring 2014 Basic Outdoor Rock Climbing School

Everyone at Granite Mtn by David Anderson

The AMC Spring 2014 Basic Outdoor Rock Climbing School wrapped up on March 22 with 26 new grads.

The Basic ORC School was special this time around for several reasons. We had a great turn-out of instructors which is critical to making the school a success and maintaining Bill's sanity. The weather was absolutely perfect, which is not always the case in March. We established a new classroom venue at the North Mountain Visitor Center. After many years of absence, we returned to (Little) Granite Mountain for the Sunday climbing session. We got back on the Monk for a grad climb, after a year of Echo Canyon closure. And, finally, we returned to an old grad party venue for a terrific graduation party graciously hosted by Marilyn Geninatti at her casa in the shadow of Camelback Mountain.

The North Mountain Visitor Center provided a great classroom environment and a huge improvement over our outdoor park experiences of the past. The staff was very gracious, opening up the facility on Tuesday and Thursday evenings specifically to accommodate us. A real classroom with tables and chairs large enough for students and instructors, built-in A/V, real indoor restrooms, and Bill didn't have to yell til he lost his voice or had to use the (hated) PA system. What more could we ask?

It was really special to get back to Little Granite Mountain (officially Granite Mountain) which is now a part of the McDowell Sonoran Preserve. As many of you will remember, historically we held the Sunday climbing day at this venue for many years, but were forced to move due to a myriad of land management issues. While the climbing management plan has not yet been fully established for this newest area of the Preserve, the City of Scottsdale approved our request to hold the second climbing day on Granite Mountain at the Cone, Lost Bandana Wall, and Dueling Hammers. This approval from Scottsdale was in no small part due to the strong relationship developed between the AMC and the City of Scottsdale over many years of service by the AMC in the McDowell Sonoran Preserve, led by Erik Filsinger. It sure felt good to introduce many more newer AMC folks to the fun climbing in these historic climbing crags right here in our own backyard.

Many thanks go to the instructors that came out in large numbers to help each of the seven days of class and climbing. These folks prepped by inspecting every item of club gear, managing class registration, assembling gear packs and manuals, coming out to each class early to set up, providing demonstrations and individual instruction during class and climbing days, showing up early on weekends to haul gear and set up climbs for students, and supporting grad climbs and the party. Our schools would simply not be possible without the generosity of the members who come out and volunteer their time and energy.

Special thanks to the Outing Leaders who provided the culmination to another fun class with our Grad Climbs: Jeff Hatfield (Sven Tower III), Jeff Nagel (Hanging Gardens), Steven Crane (Monk), Dave McClintic (Pinnacle Peak – South Crack), Curtis Stone (Watson Lake – Timezone Wall), and Bill Fallon (the Hand).

And special thanks to our own MG for graciously hosting the Grad Party. What a great place in the shadow of Camelback! It's always fun to gather after a day of climbing and the food and drink that everyone brought to share really made the party. And I'm pretty sure MG's place survived intact. At least she has invited us back again in the Fall, so that's a good sign.

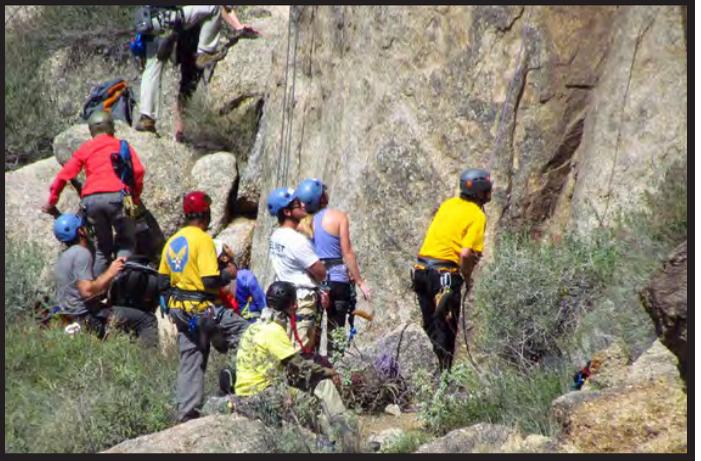

Finally, thanks to all the new grads. What a fun group!!! Everyone jumped in with both feet, learned a ton, made great progress in developing and improving their climbing skills, and had great fun. I know I really enjoyed the class and look forward to the Fall (after a good rest this summer).

KILLER BEE'Z

With the increase in temperatures and the initial spring blooming occurring throughout the desert, the bee colonies have become increasingly active. The McDowell Mountain Preserve as well as Camelback have had their run-in's with aggressive swarms, the latter actually claiming a life a few years past. Most of the be colonies that you will encounter in the field will be of the Africanized variety. The swarms are usually large and aggressive, and care should be taken to be aware of those hives on the move or newly created combs.

What should you do if you encounter a swarm? If you are on a stable area, vacate the premises as quickly as possible. Humans are faster than bees. Run in a straight line. If climbing, IMMEDIATELY double your anchor. Cover your sensitive vital areas including your eyes, nose, mouth, throat and ears. Try not to shout or flail considerably, since this will aggitate the swarm. Immediately try to escape the area via rappel, taking care to not miss double checking your set-up in haste.

Be safe, stay alert and keep an eye out on the bees..
